

Sherlock Holmes
Harpooners of the Sea Unicorn
May 17, 2019
Rob Nunn

In the lab at St. Barts one cold winter day,
Dr. Watson met a man who would change the way
That crimes were solved in foggy London town.
No snakes nor hellhounds could keep this sleuth down.
From treatises on ears to Sarasate at St. James Hall,
It seems like The Great Detective would know all.
Lady Carfax and all of the Violets were in safe hands
When Holmes was around, no matter their lands.
He could find lost racehorses, protect Bohemian kings, recover stolen submarine plans and defend all manner of things.
A man not even the Napoleon of Crime could have overthrown
So raise your glasses to the best and wisest man that we have ever known