What do Elon Musk, Steve Jobs, Alexander Graham Bell, Professor James Moriarty, and Al Gore all have in common?

All important contributors to the technology we know and use on a daily basis today.

Dr. James Moriarty was a college professor/a molder of young minds, researcher, theorist responsible for developments in early Chaos Theory, the Three-Body-Problem and much more.

But today I want to toast Professor Moriarty, who, sitting motionless at the center of his vast network, was one of the early pioneers in social networking and some might even say, the very first WEB-MASTER.
